

The Next Big Thing Competition 2012 Entry Terms and Conditions

By submitting an entry for the competition, entrants are deemed to have given consent for the entry to be published by BAFTA in Scotland in all media, including television and internet, for all purposes as it wishes and to be viewed by a panel of industry experts.

All entrants will retain the right to take their idea to any company or broadcaster in order to develop it commercially.

Group entries welcome, however the prize must be awarded to an individual.

Entrants must be able to attend The New Talent Awards Ceremony in Glasgow on 22 March 2012 if required by BAFTA in Scotland.

Entrants must be aged 16 and over.

Work entered should have been produced in Scotland and/or predominantly cast and crewed by individuals who are resident in Scotland.

Individuals entering the awards must be either students or emerging professionals working in the relevant field for the first time. Non-student entrants must be genuinely first-time practitioners. Due to the collaborative nature of creating work BAFTA in Scotland appreciate students/first-timers may work alongside more experienced crew, however we ask that submissions be made in the spirit of the New Talent Awards, and to uphold the integrity of these awards BAFTA Scotland reserve the right to make further checks to ensure eligibility.

Individuals entering the awards should be Scottish, resident in Scotland or a student registered with a Scottish institution.

The winning entrant will be notified by 15 March 2012 by either post /telephone/email, as per the contact details provided in their entry.

Entrants will be expected to take part in post-competition publicity for BAFTA in Scotland if required.

BAFTA in Scotland reserves the right to cancel the competition or any of these rules at any stage, if deemed necessary in its opinion, or if circumstances arise outside of its control.

BAFTA will only ever use personal details for the purposes of administering this competition, and will not publish them or provide them to anyone without permission.
